Over the past few months I have been witness to the globalization of Shakespeare. During the spring and summer of 2011 I went to Shakespeare’s Globe in London, where I “set the scene” for All’s Well; to the “Globe Theatre Roma,” purpose-built in 2003 in the Borghese Gardens in Rome, where I saw La tempesta mounted by the well-known Italian director Gigi Proietti; and to two different outdoor courtyards in Prague during the World Shakespeare Congress, to see Henry IV and Merry Wives of Windsor. In the fall we had Globe London productions on the big screen in Chicago, as well as the Chicago Shakespeare Theater in lights on Navy Pier.

As we all know, Shakespeare “adapts” very well. In London, at All’s Well, which I have been editing, I enjoyed noticing the fine details typical of English performances of Shakespeare, like the handkerchief that Bertram took from Helen and treated as a talisman throughout the performance. In Rome I was struck, in contrast, by how very “Italian” the performance was: the set a disused but very operatic theatre; Miranda writhing on a bed while her father recounted their history; the half-naked Ferdinand flouting like a male model; and the heavy emphasis on comedy. Not only was this, as my international group of companions remarked, the only “funny” Caliban any of us had ever seen, but Stephano and Trinculo — pronounced Trín-cúlo, to create a pun on the Italian word “culo” or ass — kept up a rapid patter in Neapolitan dialect and more or less stole the show.

Seeing Shakespeare in Prague was a different experience, since I don’t speak the language. But it was possible to tell that the two performances were dominated by two very different Falstaffs — the first short, self-satisfied, and fat (he lifted his tee shirt to admire his own very real blubber), wearing a white suit and matching fedora, a local power just below the level of the law; the second very tall, dark, mostly sober and authoritative, and obviously padded. Clearly, here again there were local jokes; I missed them but could tell that both audiences had a wonderful time and appreciated the way these Falstaffs spoke “their own language,” in all senses.

But does this horizontal spread of Shakespeare mean that the bard and his works are unproblematically transported and globalized? Daljit Nagra, in a poem in the July 25 New Yorker, “A Black History of the English-Speaking Peoples,” is less persuaded. Visiting “Mr. Wanamaker’s Globe. An American’s thatched throwback to the king of the canon” leads Nagra to meditate on whether “the Globe should be my muse” or whether “now we’re bound to the wheels of global power” his language (and by implication his/our devotion to Shakespeare) is an unwanted legacy, just “manorial slime.” In the face of such hesitations the Prague congress seemed confirmation that — whether in English or translation — Shakespeare has indeed become “the language of the world.”

I had conversations with persons whose homes ranged from the Czech Republic to Calcutta, and whose presentations were similarly wide-ranging. The new president of the International Shakespeare Association, Peter Holbrook, is Australian, and despite Mr. Nagra’s doubts, the plenary lecture/performance by the Afro-Canadian playwright Djanet Sears, “Racing Othello; Writing Back/Talking Back,” which she identified as “The Anatomy of an Act of Literary Decolonization as Viewed from the Inside” demonstrated precisely how Shakespeare stimulates scholarly and artistic activity throughout the former empire and beyond.

My current concerns, consequently, might be identified as vertical rather than horizonal, that is, about preparing the coming global generation to continue our work and engage with Shakespeare both critically and theatrically. If we, and here I mean the SAA, are to have a future, at least in the U.S., we need to continue supporting all those teachers (and theaters) who engage middle and high school students with Shakespeare in a multitude of activities. We need to resist attempts to reduce reading assignments to contemporary “American Literature,” and the consequent failure to provide students with historical and literary context. Instead, we need to insure that newer generations are presented both with post-colonial literature and with “colonial literature,” if that is what Shakespeare is. We, our children, our students, and our future audiences need Shakespeare beyond ninth grade Romeo and Juliet as well as appropriations like Sears’ play Harlem Duet, which “conversely reaffirms the canonical text,” directing readers and audiences back to the original. This, I think, should be our goal too; we need to welcome and encourage multiple Globes, and globalization, but we must not lose sight of the texts on which they all build.

Thursday, 6:00 to 8:00 p.m.

Opening Reception at the Boston Park Plaza Hotel

The 2012 Opening Reception will be held in the stunning Imperial and Plaza ballrooms of the Boston Park Plaza Hotel, located a few short blocks from our conference venue. A landmark of elegance, the Boston Park Plaza opened its doors in 1927 as The Statler Hotel—a hotel that was among the first to offer its guests the most modern conveniences including in-room radios and “Do Not Disturb” signs. The hotel became a National Historical Landmark in 1973. The reception is open to all registrants for the 40th Annual Meeting and their guests. Each guest must have an SAA name tag; see page 11 of this bulletin for further details.

Friday, 4:15 to 5:15 p.m.

Concert:

Measure for Measure: The Music of Shakespeare’s Plays

Ensemble Chaconne (Peter H. Bloom, Renaissance flute; Carol Lewis, viola da gamba; Olav Chris Henriksen, Renaissance lute) and mezzo-soprano Pamela Dellal offer a rare and compelling view of the music Shakespeare’s audiences would have enjoyed. Ensemble Chaconne has been praised for “vitality and character... style and verve” (MusicWeb International), and mezzo-soprano Pamela Dellal for her “lushly fluid” singing (The Washington Post). Selections include music from As You Like It, Twelfth Night, The Tempest, Hamlet, and other plays.

Friday, 8:00 to 10:00 p.m.

Film Screening:

H4

Shakespeare meets the modern Black experience. Based on William Shakespeare’s Henry IV, Parts 1 and 2, H4 is English History reborn into the African American now; this is Shakespeare as you’ve never seen it before. Produced by Triumvirate Pictures.

Post-screening discussion with script writer Ayanna Thompson (Arizona State University), producers Harry Lennix and Vanoy Burnough, directors Dwain Perrt and Paul Quinn and members of the film’s cast.

Saturday, 8:00 to 10:00 p.m.

Film Screening:

Still Dreaming

Still Dreaming follows a group of retired actors in residence at the Lillian Booth nursing home as they mount a production of A Midsummer Night’s Dream that stretches their physical, emotional and mental limits. Along the way, the elders share their insights into Shakespeare and what the creative process can offer us toward the end of our days. With this documentary, Hank Rogerson and Jilann Spitzmiller (Shakespeare Behind Bars), utilize Shakespeare to change stereotypes of the aged.

Still Dreaming has not yet been released; Annual Meeting attendees will take an exclusive look at the film in post-production.

Post-screening discussion with film director Hank Rogerson and MSND directors Ben Steinfeld and Noah Brody. Facilitated by Amy Scott-Douglass (Marymount University).
MEMBERS FLYING INTO BOSTON SHOULD ARRIVE AT THE BOSTON LOGAN INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT (BOS). GO BOSTON SHUTTLE SERVICE WILL DELIVER PATRONS DIRECTLY TO THE CONFERENCE HOTEL. ROOM SHARE

To help reduce lodging expenses, the SAA assists members seeking roommates at the conference facility. Please e-mail shakespeare@georgetown.edu with your dates and requirements.

APRIL IN BOSTON

The average temperature in Boston is 47.2 degrees in early April.

DINING AT THE WESTIN

Westin Copley guests have access to five dining facilities (not including the Starbucks in the hotel lobby). A featured few of these eateries are Bar 10, voted the best bar in Boston by Boston Magazine and featuring signature martinis and lighter Mediterranean fare; and Turner Fisheries Restaurant & Bar which boasts a well-earned reputation for superior seafood.

MUSEUM OF FINE ARTS, BOSTON

is one of the world’s great art museums with masterpieces from around the world and across the ages, including more Monets than any museum outside of Paris. Special exhibitions during April include “Manet in Black” and “Paper Zoo.” Museum is open daily. For more information see www.mfa.org.

BOSTON PUBLIC LIBRARY

was the first large free municipal library in the United States. Today the library holds 8.9 million books in addition to a wealth of rare books and manuscripts including several first edition Shakespeare folios and original scores by Mozart. John Adams’ personal library is included in its rare book collection. The library is open daily. For more information see www.bpl.org.

FENWAY PARK

offers walking tours of the historical ballpark (approx. 50 minutes). Visit the park where the Babe pitched, The Kid hit, and Yaz dazzled. All tours led by an official Fenway Park Tour Guide. (No Red Sox games scheduled during the Annual Meeting, though.) Tours offered daily. See boston.red sox.mlb.com/bos/ballpark/tour.jsp.

COLEY PLACE

is Boston’s most distinctive shopping destination with 75 fabulous stores including Neiman Marcus, Barneys New York, Tiffany & Co., Jimmy Choo, Burberry, and more. Be warned: these temptations lie just beyond your Westin Copley Place door.

For other events and attractions, consult http://www.bostonusa.com/visit

Conference Participation

For Seminars and Workshops

SAA seminars and workshops are designed to serve as forums for fresh research, mutual criticism, and pedagogical and technological experimentation among members with specialized interests and areas of expertise. Each program requires advance work on the part of its members, and this work, which may include papers, bibliographies, exercises, and other exchanges, must be duplicated and circulated to the program’s full membership for receipt by the deadline established by the seminar or workshop leader.

It is assumed that seminars and workshops will be conducted as gatherings of professional colleagues, in an atmosphere of shared respect, and with balanced concern for both individual contributions and corporate endeavors. SAA policy is that all seminar and workshop members are entitled to receive comments on and discussion of their work, assuming that work has been submitted by the deadline and has been circulated to other members of the group. Every member of a seminar or workshop should be given a chance to speak, and no one should be allowed to monopolize the conversation. Auditors are permitted to join the discussion only when invited to do so by the seminar or workshop leader(s), and then only for the last twenty or thirty minutes of the session, at the discretion of the leader(s).

Meeting participants should treat all work-in-progress with the utmost respect. No paper should be circulated outside the seminar membership without the author’s permission. In future publication, acknowledgment of another participant’s paper is incumbent upon its user, whether or not the paper has subsequently been published. Permission must be secured for any quoted material.

For Paper Sessions

SAA paper sessions are intended to present new research, discoveries, interpretations, and analyses to the membership at large. SAA policy provides time at the conclusion of each session for brief comments and questions from the audience. As a general rule, the chair of a session will speak for no longer than five minutes. In a three-paper session, each presenter will speak no longer than twenty minutes.

Conference Registration

For SAA Members

All current members of the Shakespeare Association are welcome to register for the 40th Annual Meeting in Boston. SAA membership dues are assessed by the academic year and were payable in Fall 2011. Membership may be renewed or initiated online at www.ShakespeareAssociation.org. Only those who are members in good standing—i.e., paid members for 2011-2012—may subscribe to journals at the SAA’s discounted rates, vote in the 2012 election, and register for and attend the 2012 Meeting.

The Meeting Registration Fee entitles SAA members to attend all sessions, seminars, and workshops in Boston, as well as book exhibits, the Opening Reception on Thursday evening, the Annual Luncheon on Friday, performances, film screenings, coffee breaks, and other receptions.

The Meeting Registration Form should be either (1) printed from this bulletin, completed, and mailed or faxed to the SAA office or (2) completed online at our website, www.ShakespeareAssociation.org.

For Guests of SAA Members

Guests of registered members are welcome at all paper sessions, performances, film screenings, coffee breaks, and receptions. To attend the Opening Reception, guests must have SAA name tags, available without charge. To attend the Annual Luncheon, guests must purchase luncheon tickets. To register a guest with the SAA, see page 11 of this bulletin.

The Conference Hotel

Reservations for the Westin Copley Boston cannot be made with the SAA office. They must be made with the hotel directly. See the facing page of this bulletin for more information.

Program Planning for SAA 2013 in Toronto

Each year’s program originates in proposals submitted by individual members of the SAA and approved by the Trustees. Program planning for the 41st Annual Meeting will take place during the Boston conference. Only members in good standing for 2011-2012 are eligible to submit proposals for 2013. No one may take a major role as a paper presenter, seminar leader, or workshop leader at two consecutive meetings.

FOR GRADUATE STUDENTS

The Shakespeare Association of America takes pleasure in welcoming advanced graduate students to its membership. Seminars and workshops are appropriate for those in the later stages of their doctoral work. At earlier stages, students may wish to familiarize themselves with the Association’s proceedings by attending paper sessions and auditing seminars and workshops.

Graduate Student Breakfast: Each year the Trustees of the SAA host a Continental Breakfast for all graduate students attending the conference. They welcome the opportunity to meet their future colleagues and to learn of any special concerns graduate students bring to the SAA. The breakfast is scheduled for Friday morning at 8:00 a.m., directly before the Plenary Paper Session.

Graduate Student Travel Awards: Travel subsidies of $300 are available to support dissertation-level students whose research will be enhanced by seminar participation. Applications have already been made for the 2012 conference. The application deadline for the 2013 conference is 1 November 2012; application information will appear in the June 2012 Bulletin.

Graduate Student Fee Waivers: For winners of Travel Awards, the conference registration fee is waived. Others can receive fee waivers by assisting for eight to ten hours either at the conference registration tables or during special events. Positions are awarded on a first-come, first-recruited basis. Those interested should contact the SAA Office.

The J. Leeds Barroll Dissertation Prize: In honor of the founder of the Shakespeare Association of America, the Trustees of the SAA have created a dissertation prize to recognize outstanding work in Shakespeare studies each year. Dissertations brought forward for the 2012 prize must have been submitted and approved at the candidate’s university during the calendar year 2011. The competition is open to SAA members in good standing. Applicants should send (1) a cover letter of no more than two pages, providing an abstract of the dissertation and giving context for the writing sample; and (2) twenty pages from the introduction or any chapter of the applicant’s choice. These materials should be sent as e-mail attachments to shakespeare@georgetown.edu by 15 January 2012. They will be used for an initial screening, with selected applicants then encouraged to forward full copies of the dissertation and also hard-copy letters from the applicant’s chair or director of graduate studies, confirming approval of the dissertation. Submissions will be reviewed by a committee consisting of the President and other members of the Board of Trustees.

The prize will be presented at the Luncheon of the 40th Annual Meeting of the SAA in Boston, Massachusetts, on 6 April 2012.

Submission deadline: 15 January 2012.
Please print your name and affiliation (or place of residence) as you wish them to appear on your meeting name tag.
