The South-Central Renaissance Conference is an interdisciplinary association of Renaissance scholars with membership drawn primarily from North America and Europe. SCRC takes pride in being the oldest and friendliest Renaissance conference in North America. In addition to serving as a venue for new scholarship in variety of Renaissance subject areas, the conference also hosts The Queen Elizabeth I Society, The Andrew Marvell Society, and The Society for Renaissance Art History, all three of which always meet in conjunction with the conference and sponsor multiple paper sessions.

Papers (15-20 minutes in length) are invited on any aspect of Renaissance studies (music, art history, history, literature, emblems, language, philosophy, political history, science, theology, et al.). Interdisciplinary studies are especially welcome. Abstracts only (400-500 words; a shorter 100-word abstract for inclusion in the program) must be submitted online no later than 1 December 2014, via the SCRC website's abstract submission form: <http://www.scrc.us.com/discoveries/abstract-submission-form/>. Please note that the SCRC does not allow papers to be read in absentia.

Conferees are encouraged to submit their papers to the SCRC publication Explorations in Renaissance Culture, a bi-annual, fully refereed, independent scholarly journal published by Brill. The SCRC also sponsors the bi-annual online newsletter, Discoveries, featuring news, reviews, and shorter articles.

Undergraduates wishing to be considered for participation in the conference must submit a faculty letter of support, e-mailed to the program chair, along with the complete text of the paper, by the 1 December deadline.
